SUMMARY: Mostly cloudy conditions are expected along the coast and the inland areas this morning, with mist or fog patches likely to develop over forest zones and hilly grounds. There is also a chance of rainfall over few coastal locations. Sunny weather with occasional cloud cover will dominate most places across the country as the day progresses into the afternoon. However, from late afternoon into the evening, thunderstorms or rain of varying intensity are expected over parts of the middle, transition and northern sectors as well as a few coastal and inland towns.
