SUMMARY: Mostly cloudy conditions will prevail across most parts of the country this evening into the night, with thunderstorms or rain of varying intensities expected over parts of the middle, transition, and northern sectors. Few areas along the coast and nearby inland areas are also likely to experience slight rain during the period. By the early hours of Friday, mist or fog patches are expected to form over the forest and mountainous areas. There is also a likelihood of slight to moderate rain over parts of southern Ghana tomorrow morning.
