SUMMARY: Predominantly cloudy weather is expected to persist for most places in Ghana with the likelihood of slight rain or drizzle along the coast, middle and transition belts this evening and into the night. Nonetheless, the early hours of tomorrow are expected to be mostly cloudy with mist and fog patches forming over hilly and forest areas to reduce visibility range. Portions of the northern sector are likely to experience isolated thunderstorms or rain in the morning as well.

NB: Relatively cool night and early morning temperatures are expected across the country.
