SUMMARY: This morning, slight rain or drizzle is likely over a few areas along the coast, while thunderstorms or rain are expected over parts of the transition and northern sectors. Mostly cloudy conditions are expected to prevail across the country. Early morning mist or fog is also expected over a few coastal, forested and mountainous areas, leading to reduced visibility. As the day unfolds, sunny breaks with periodic cloudiness are anticipated across most parts of the country. There is a chance of thunderstorms or rain affecting few areas within the middle, transition and northern sectors from late afternoon into the evening.
