SUMMARY: Mostly cloudy weather conditions will continue to dominate most places in the country tonight with isolated thunderstorms or rain over the upper regions whereas pockets of intermittent drizzle are anticipated to affect few areas along the coast and forest belt. However, a moderate rainstorm sighted at the northern portions of Nigeria is expected to drift westwards to affect places in the northern and transition sectors with varying intensities of thunderstorms or rain during the dawn and early morning hours of tomorrow.

NB: Relatively cool night and early morning temperatures are expected across the country.
