SUMMARY: Mostly cloudy conditions are expected across most parts of the country this morning, with mist or fog patches likely over parts of the coast, mountainous and forest areas during the early hours. A few areas along the western coast may also experience rain during the morning. As the day progresses, sunny conditions with occasional cloudiness will prevail across much of the country. However, a few coastal and inland areas may experience localized thunderstorms or rain from late afternoon into the evening, while slightly hazy conditions persist over the northern sector throughout the forecast period.
