SUMMARY: Partly cloudy weather will dominate the southern half of the country with prospects of thunderstorms or rain along the west and central coast as well as some inland areas this evening. However, dry and hazy conditions with varying intensities will persist across the northern half. Mist and fog patches are anticipated over the coast, forest and mountainous areas early tomorrow morning. Visibility is expected to range from 4km to 10km.

NB: Relatively cool night and early morning temperatures will be experienced over the northern sector of the country.
