24-HOUR IMPACT-BASED FORECAST FOR GHANA

SUMMARY: The early hours of the morning will be dominated by variably cloudy weather over most places in the country with midst and fog patches forming over hilly and forest areas. Few cases of drizzle or slight rain are anticipated to affect portions of the coast and inland areas. However, the afternoon period is expected to be mostly sunny with periodic cloud cover over the entire country with the possibility of thunderstorms and rain occurring over parts of the northern and transition belts later in the day.
