SUMMARY: Tonight, partly cloudy weather will prevail across southern Ghana, with thunderstorms or rain expected over the west coast, Asamankese, Akroso, Agona Swedru and some areas within Accra. However, the northern half of the country will remain fairly dry and hazy throughout the forecast period. Early tomorrow morning, mist or fog patches are expected to form over parts of the coastal, forest, and mountainous zones. Poor visibility is anticipated in the early hours of the day; therefore, road users are advised to take caution to avert any accident.

NB: Relatively cool night and early morning temperatures are expected over the upper regions.
