SUMMARY: This afternoon, periods of sunshine and cloudiness will prevail over most parts of southern Ghana. From late afternoon into the evening hours, rain-bearing clouds are expected to develop to produce rainfall and thundery activities over few places along the coastal and inland areas. However, the northern and transition belt will continue to experience dry and hazy weather with a visibility range of 2km to 8km.

NB: Cold night and early morning temperatures are expected over the northern region.
