SUMMARY: Partly cloudy conditions will generally prevail across the country this morning, with the formation of mist and fog patches expected over parts of the coastline, forest zones, and mountainous areas during the early hours. Thereafter, sunny and bright conditions will dominate all sectors. However, from late afternoon into the evening, thunderstorms or rain are likely to affect areas slightly north of the coastline, as well as parts of the middle and transition sectors. Slightly hazy conditions will persist over the extreme northern portions of the country throughout the forecast period.
